Bloomberg Markets

Cheat Sheet

Company Earnings

EE <Go>

provides a menu of earnings estimates and analytics—as well as earnings projections from third-party contributors—for a selected company.

EEO <Go>

displays consensus estimates for 18 financial measures and six valuation ratios for a selected company.

EEA <Go>

displays earnings and revenue consensus estimates—or estimates from a specific broker—for a selected company.

GE <Go>

lets you graph stock price and valuation ratios for a selected company during a specified period.

ACDR <Go>

displays actual and estimated earnings and announcement dates for companies in a selected region or country.

EEG <Go>

graphs a selected company's stock price against estimates for a selected financial measure.

RV <Go>

enables you to compare the performance of a selected company with other companies in its industry or sector.
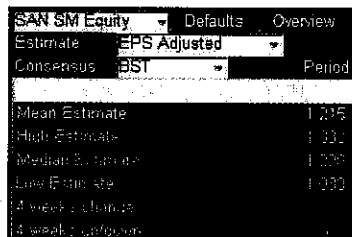

ERN <Go>

displays a summary of earnings-per-share data for a selected company.

SURP <Go>

lets you track earnings or revenue surprises for a selected company.

EEB <Go>

displays details of the consensus estimate for a selected financial measure, including a chart plotting the consensus over time, along with a list of the broker estimates that make up the consensus.

EM <Go>

displays a matrix that enables you to compare actual financial data with estimates for a selected company.

GUID <Go>

displays earnings guidance for a selected company whose stock is included in the Russell 3000 Index.

BBEA <Go>

displays a menu of regional and topic categories for accessing earnings-related news.

WPE <Go>

displays stock price ratios and dividend yields of global benchmark equity indexes.

SPXE <Go>

enables you to track quarterly earnings for sectors in the Standard & Poor's 500 Index.

EERM <Go>

lets you monitor revisions to earnings estimates for a selected company or group of companies.

PEBD <Go>

graphs a selected company's stock price against bands representing historical high and low price-earnings ratios.

GRE <Go>

graphs the ratio of the historical P/Es for two selected companies.

NI EST <Go>

lists headlines for news stories related to earnings estimates.

BQ <Go>

displays an overview of stock price and trade data, fundamental information and news for a selected company.

Compiled by JOHN RUSSELL